The last meeting to finalize the reception was a little close to the event. I know it had to be prompted by Traci. The concern was there was a change in coordinators & we were concerned the information would not be consistent. It turned out to be fine but we were in a less than 2 week window. Except confusion on the new rm. We were told that new room would be available for our use if needed. It was not so table setup had to be reconfigured. It ended up being fine.
